

ELSEVIER

Science of Computer Programming 39 (2001) 273

Science of Computer Programming

www.elsevier.nl/locate/scico

Author index of Volume 39

Duggan, D., Finite subtype inference with explicit polymorphism	(1)	57-92
Feijs, L.M.G., Mechanisms for naming: An algebraic approach with an application to Java	(2-3)	149-188
Groote, J.F. and J. van Wamel, Analysis of three hybrid systems in timed μ CRL	(2-3)	215-247
Hind, M. and A. Pioli, Evaluating the effectiveness of pointer alias analyses	(1)	31-55
Janicki, R. and R. Khedri, On a formal semantics of tabular expressions	(2-3)	189-213
Khedri, R., see R. Janicki	(2-3)	189-213
Levi, F., A symbolic semantics for abstract model checking	(1)	93-123
Moreau, L., Distributed directory service and message routing for mobile agents	(2-3)	249-272
Pioli, A., see M. Hind	(1)	31-55
Rüthing, O., Code motion in the presence of critical edges without bidirectional data flow analysis	(1)	3-29
van Wamel, J., see J.F. Groote	(2-3)	215-247
Volpe, P., A first-order language for expressing sharing and type properties of logic programs	(1)	125-148

Annex to the Report

1. The Commission on the Status of Women was established by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1946.
2. The Commission has since that time held regular sessions and has produced a series of reports to the General Assembly.
3. The Commission's work has been directed towards the advancement of the status of women in all fields of human activity.
4. The Commission has established a number of working groups and expert groups to study specific issues.
5. The Commission has also organized a number of international conferences and seminars on the status of women.
6. The Commission has been instrumental in the adoption of a number of international instruments for the advancement of women.
7. The Commission has also been instrumental in the establishment of a number of international organizations for the advancement of women.
8. The Commission has been instrumental in the establishment of a number of international organizations for the advancement of women.
9. The Commission has been instrumental in the establishment of a number of international organizations for the advancement of women.
10. The Commission has been instrumental in the establishment of a number of international organizations for the advancement of women.

